

Your Action Plan Road Map

How Might We.... Support students to have more resilience and independence during unstructured times. Build confidence, empathy

Conflict resolution at recess.

Action Plan Outcomes

1. Students are engaging effectively at recess in wide variety of activities.
2. Students are able to manage conflicts, disappointments, "bumps" independently
3. Visible signs of shoutouts recognizing positive behaviour → source of confidence boosting and positive motivation

Planned Experiments
(What will you try to do to test your idea?)

1. Create novel options for recess play → choice board template for classrooms
2. Meet w/ small groups of students to brainstorm strategies/activities
3. Test out role playing scenarios in classrooms.
4. Hand out positive behaviour cards @ recess to build momentum/motivation

Tasks to complete connected to each experiment (To do's)

November to do's:

- create cards for positive behaviour
- Student surveys for recess reflections
- Create choice boards for activities
- Order more recess equipment

December to do's:

- Role play conflict resolutions in classrooms
- Survey students → Check in post changes/additions
- Connect w/ Upper School for student leadership help

January to do's:

- Plan parent PD (Alex Russell)
- Survey students & teachers

How and when will you collect user-feedback?
→ Google forms → monthly?

Before the next face to face:

- 1) Post to your blog and share your refined "How might we..." question that you created today. Include pictures from your workbook, links to resources and insights into the "WHY" behind your challenge. Ask questions and reach out to others in the cohort for support in your post using the "@@" tool. Due (January 11th, 2023)
- 2) Share your action plan with your users/students and get their feedback. Include them in your design and planning process. Incorporate their input. Post on your "How Might We" Question in your classroom and Tweet a picture of it to #cohort
- 3) Engage: Take part in a Twitter Chat or a Hangout with your coach/facilitator - Reach out for support and lend a hand where you can share your expertise through the blogs of others.
- 4) Book coverage for Friday January 20th, 2023. Make sure it is in your calendar. Make time between now and then to think about, plan and move forward with all the ideas you generated today
